

Hello, my name is Joe Aracri. I'm a pediatrician and President of Pediatric Alliance, a group of physicians dedicated to the health and well-being of children. Divisions located throughout the Pittsburgh area function independently, allowing your doctors to develop a personal relationship and grow with your family throughout childhood. The 42 physicians of Pediatric Alliance come together to provide cutting edge care based on the most current research and information in pediatric medicine. We offer services in allergy, endocrinology, breastfeeding and international adoption. Some divisions have special interests in behavioral health, weight control, sports medicine and special needs children.
