

Hi, I'm Dr. Jennifer Romero from the Fox Chapel Division of Pediatric Alliance. Whether you're expecting your first or your fourth child your pediatrician can serve as a great resource. From infant safety to breastfeeding, from child development to sibling adjustment your pediatrician has reliable advice to share with you. For expecting parents, now is the time to decide which pediatric group is right for you. Many new parents have questions regarding office hours, same-day sick appointments, hospital privileges, evening and weekend services and the accessibility of the doctors. Scheduling a prenatal visit is a great way to get answers to these questions and to find out about the pediatricians approach to infant feeding, antibiotics, vaccine administration and more. Our number one job is to guide you through the ever-changing experience of parenting and to keep kids healthy.
